Since the inception of the Internet, computer information security has become more critical to the business community. There are several federal laws (Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act, HIPAA Act, and Sarbanes-Oxley) that affect the confidentiality of stored and transmitted customer information.

Information gathering is the first step towards understanding any problem. Once you have taken time to develop an understanding, using good information security practices, you can comply with federal and state laws that could negatively affect your bottom line. ISBlanketSM offers Appreciation Gifts that will help you determine your security posture and comply with the federal laws.

Appreciation Gifts are good door prizes and good online drawings prizes. ISBlanket'sSM is waiting to help you organize either.
